DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-18 are allowed. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

With respect to claim 1, the Prior Art does not teach an electric motor for rotatably driving a rotating body; operation means for issuing a rotation command for rotation of the rotating body; control means for controlling said electric motor based on the rotation command issued from said operation means; a rotating speed detecting means for detecting a rotating speed of the rotating body; and a mechanical brake for generating mechanical braking force, wherein said control means has a neutral range set by adding a predetermined width to an absolute neutral point serving as a basic point, the absolute neutral point corresponding to an operation amount of said operation means of zero, and in said neutral range, a mechanical brake zone is set on the absolute neutral point side, while a position holding control zone is set on a side opposite to said neutral point side, and wherein said control means is adapted to cause said mechanical brake to work in the mechanical brake zone of said neutral range, to perform position holding control in said position holding control zone, thereby stopping and holding said rotating body, and to perform speed control according to the operation amount of said operation means outside the neutral range.

means for detecting a rotating speed of the rotating body, said control means performing speed control according to an operation amount of said operation means and imposing a limitation on a maximum value of accelerating torque according to said operation amount, wherein, when said operation means is positioned within a preset neutral range, said control means is adapted to perform position holding control of said rotating body, to store torque generated in said electric motor by the position holding control as on-the-spot holding torque, and to set, in accelerating the rotation, the higher of said on-the-spot holding torque stored and said accelerating torque produced according to the operation amount of said operation means, as electric motor torque for acceleration.

With respect to claim 9, the Prior Art does not teach an electric motor driving a rotatable body, control means, rotating speed detection means, said control means performs speed control set by a target value of the operator when no pressing work is being done, and when pressing work the device performs torque control with feedback control to provide a target value of the torque according to an operation amount instead of speed control.

With respect to claim 10 and 12, the Prior Art does not teach an electric motor driving a rotatable body, control means, rotating speed detection means, said control means performs speed control set by a target value of the operator when no pressing work is being done, and when pressing work the device performs speed control with control to impose a torque limitation according to the operation amount of the operator means..

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
